THE PROJECT

A new kind of hospitality editorial

Luxury Hub Italy is an independent editorial project dedicated to charming stays, timeless places, and the art of traveling Italy with intention.

We are building a space where atmosphere matters more than category — where a property earns its presence through character, story, and a distinct sense of place, not through classification or rating.

Our audience is the discerning traveler: someone who reads before they book, who values the narrative of a place as much as its amenities, and who seeks experiences that leave a lasting impression.

Places with a point of view

We are drawn to properties that carry a distinct identity – whether a restored palazzo in a hillside village, a design-led retreat in an unexpected location, or a historic estate with generations of story woven into its walls.

What we look for is not a category or a star rating. We look for atmosphere, integrity of character, and a sense of place that photography and words can do full justice to.

Our selection is deliberate and unhurried. We take the time to understand each place before any editorial decision is made.

Let's begin a conversation.

If Luxury Hub Italy feels like the right context for your property, we would be glad to connect.

We keep our process simple and direct — no forms, no packages, no obligations. Just a conversation about your place and whether it belongs in this world we are building.
